

ZELLA GONE AGAIN.

Returned from Europe Yesterday, but Left Town This Morning.

Ruhman and She Booked as Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

No Light Yet on the Gould-Nicolaus Check Mystery.

Mrs. Zella Nicolaus, the young woman who gained notoriety a short time ago by bringing suit against George Gould for $40,000, and who returned from Europe yesterday by the French line steamer La Bourgogne, has again left town.

Accompanied by Al Ruhman, who says she is his wife, she went to the Hotel Imperial last night and was assigned to room 281.

The couple registered as A. Ruhman and wife, and this morning, according to the clerk, they left on the 8 o'clock train for Mount Vernon.

Mrs. Nicolaus sailed for Europe Dec. 12, after beginning her suit to recover the value of a check which she alleges Mr. Gould has given her.

She was accompanied by Mr. Ruhman, and the couple sailed under the fictitious names of A. Harris and Miss Graham. They returned under the names of E. J. Moore and wife.

During their brief career in New York they have been under numerous aliases in order to avoid reporters, and all efforts to get some information regarding the check have been fruitless. Even her counsel, Mr. Hummel, of Howe & Hummel, has declined to speak on the subject.

Mr. Gould, however, has been outspoken from the start, in denouncing the woman as a blackmailer, and saying the check in question existed only in his imagination, and never passed between them.

Supt. Byrnes also denounced the woman as a "crafty adventuress," and declared himself willing to go to jail to land her behind prison bars just prior to her departure for Europe. But the opportunity did not obtain any of the handsome Zella except the clutches of the metropolitan hawknests.

There were a number of callers for the couple at the hotel this morning, among others being two gentlemen who were said to be out of town theatrical agents. None of them, however, was able to see the pair except on condition of information concerning them than the mere fact that they stopped at the hotel last night, but left this morning.

Mr. Hummel declined to discuss the suit, but a "Evening World" reporter, or even to say whether a settlement, which it was estimated had been made, was the woman's departure for Europe, had been arrived at. He acknowledged that Mrs. Nicolaus had been held as security until the hotel last night, but left this morning.

Mr. George Gould had not arrived at his office from his vacation this morning, and it was said that he probably would not come to town today.

Mr. Edward Gould, however, said reporters about the matter.

The fact that Mrs. Nicolaus and her guardian, or rather, her father, are in severe financial straits, and unable to pay her bill at the Sturtevant House, where she has been held as security, until the day before they sailed, and the fact that they showed every evidence of suddenly accumulated wealth the day they sailed and during their stay abroad, has aroused the suspicion that Mr. Gould, or some near friend, might be in a position to help and when the wealth was acquired.

SAID HIS SON WAS AFRAID.

Young Bromson Would Not Testify to the Looting of His Father's Store.

Thomas Lynett, aged twenty-six, a pipe-cutter of 25 Elizabeth street, and Dennis Harrington, aged twenty-nine, a laborer, of 137 Baxter street, were each fined $100 by Justice Martin in the Tombs Court this morning, charged with looting the hardware, clothing and general house-supply store of William Bromson, at 50 Baxter street.

The trouble began on Friday, when Bromson says, the accused entered his establishment and threw out all his goods. He said he was afraid to call the police, and that he was afraid to call the police, and that he was afraid to call the police.

LOST LIFE THROUGH A JOKE.

Martin Fatally Stabs a Man of the Same Name.

Surrenders to the Police When His Victim Dies.

Capt. Cross and Policemen Cohen and Schindler, of the Fifth street station, arraigned Emil Martin, a German, thirty-nine years old, of 171 Ashford avenue, East New York, before Justice Hogan, in the Essex Market Police Court, today.

Both men were employed in Michael Halliday's confectionery, at 218 East Ninth street. The other men in the shop made the two Martins the victims of a joke, which was the cause of the similarity of their names.

On Saturday last they had Emil Martin's name on the list of names of the shop. The latter denied it and, when the German repeated the charge, slapped the accused's face.

Emil at once seized a scratch saw and jabbed it into Eugene Martin's lung. The wound was fatal, and he died before he was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where he lingered until last night.

Justice Hogan held Emil Martin to await the action of the coroner's inquest, and the German was committed to the Tombs. He surrendered himself to him this morning.

Justice Hogan held Emil Martin to await the action of the coroner's inquest, and the German was committed to the Tombs. He surrendered himself to him this morning.

OWES TEN WEEKS' ALIMONY.

Mrs. E. E. Kahn Wants Her Husband Punished for Contempt.

Application was made to Justice Lawrence in Supreme Court Chambers today by Lawyer Mirra Goodman, on behalf of Mrs. Hannah Kahn, for an order compelling E. E. Kahn to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court in failing to pay his wife alimony.

Kahn is well known in business circles, having formerly been credit man for B. Altman & Co., and afterwards in the wholesale fur business. In the latter he failed, however, and now holds a position of minor importance.

Mrs. Kahn said her husband three years ago, after a separation on the ground of cruelty, the court awarded her $22 a week alimony, pending the result of a trial in the courts, but it is alleged that the defendant is ten weeks in arrears in the payment of alimony.

Mrs. Kahn's lawyer told Justice Lawrence that his client was in California, where she is ill as a result of the alleged cruel treatment of Kahn.

Kahn's counsel argued that his client's health was such that she should be allowed thirty days in which to pay her alimony.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE INCOME.

Brought Out as Evidence in the Fayerweather Will Contest.

The long drawn out and complicated contest over the residuary estate of Daniel B. Fayerweather was continued before Judge Trunk in the Special Term of the Supreme Court this morning.

When the case was adjourned Friday afternoon counsel for the colleges had sprung a very strong trump card when he offered in evidence a letter written by Thomas B. Fayerweather, the late owner of Williams College, which claims to be one of the beneficiaries of the estate.

The original paper, which was the first witness put on the stand this morning, was testified that the income of the college did not exceed $100,000 in 1917, and was even less now.

Joseph H. Ladd, one of the members of the Williams College, testified that the original paper, which was the first witness put on the stand this morning, was testified that the income of the college did not exceed $100,000 in 1917, and was even less now.

Several questions bearing on the correspondence between Mr. Fiske and other colleges, and then Mr. Parsons offered two letters in evidence, the first of which was from the University of Rochester, to Arnold Rich & Woodford, and the answer to it.

The first letter was one putting the entire Fayerweather matters into the hands of the trustees of the University, and asking him to execute certain papers.

The second letter was one in which Mr. Cooke said he did not like to assume the authority of executing any of the papers.

EVELYN VERY POOR NOW.

She Gets Thirty Days' Grace to Save Her Furniture.

Evelyn Granville Webster, the wife of Bookmaker Burton C. Webster, who shot and killed Charles Goodwin in Percival Plaza in 1922, was a defendant this morning in the Seventh Judicial Court.

The suit against her was brought by Thomas Willis, a furniture dealer at 201 Fourth avenue. The complaint says that Mrs. Webster bought $150 worth of furniture from Willis in 1922 on the condition that she would pay for it in installments.

Since the shooting of Goodwin and the trial, Mrs. Webster has been moving from her home at 201 Fourth avenue to the furniture with the Terminal Warehouse Company, and the furniture dealer has brought suit to recover it for the money due.

Mrs. Webster is now living under the name of Evelyn Granville Webster, and has been in the city for some time. She has been in the city for some time, and has been in the city for some time.

WHOLE FAMILY STRICKEN.

Four Ill with Small-Pox in a Roosevelt Street House.

Police of the Oak Street Station Vaccinated.

A number of fresh cases of small-pox were reported at the Bureau of Contagious Diseases this morning. Some of them were discovered Saturday, and others came to the notice of the Health officials yesterday.

A whole family was found ill with the disease Saturday afternoon at 51 Roosevelt street, where small-pox had raged two or three months ago.

A report was received at the Bureau that a man was sick on the top floor of the Roosevelt street tenement, and an inspector went there. The family in question consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Keating, and their two children, Frank, eight years, and William, two years old.

They all showed symptoms of small-pox and were quickly sent to Riverside Hospital.

It was learned that the Keatings had lived in the tenement only a short time. They may have caught the small-pox in the apartments where people previously lived, or they may have caught it from the man who was sick on the top floor.

The tenement has been subjected to every measure to stamp out the infection, and all the many families have been vaccinated.

John Copeland, forty-five years old, walked into Bellevue Hospital Saturday evening, after having been in the city for some time. He had been in the city for some time, and had been in the city for some time.

CALLAHAN'S MAN RELEASED.

Sunday Raid on the Assemblyman's Salon Was in Vain.

Excise Prisoners Also Discharged in Other Courts.

Assemblyman Michael Callahan, who ever since his election to the Legislature by the grace of Police Justice Patrick Divver, has been openly boasting of his ability to violate the law with impunity, carried around a chip on his shoulder this morning, and there was not a man in the Tombs Police Court, from Justice Martin down to the smallest officer, who dared knock it off.

One of Callahan's saloons—the one in Chatham Square with which Callahan was well acquainted—was raided last evening and Daniel Sullivan, the bartender, was arrested.

Policeman Smith, of the Elizabeth street station, had the temerity to enter the place.

Earlier in the day other officers had tried in vain to do so, but Callahan's scouts and "bouncers" prevented them from getting inside. It was by strategy that Policeman Smith managed to gain an entrance, and when Callahan heard of it he swore a mighty oath.

This morning the Assemblyman's name was on everybody's lips in the Tombs Police Court. He was expected to appear, but he did not. He was expected to appear, but he did not.

The number of saloons raided yesterday was not so great as on last Sunday. This may be for the reason that more places were kept closed. Rev. Dr. Parker, however, does not think so. He is now in order to break or transfer the saloons who had the temerity to make the arrest.

"The average," he said this morning, "is a long time has been about sixty arrests a day, and the figures jumped up to 120 now. They have fallen down again. The arrests, anyhow, are not so many. This thing of singling out isolated saloons and raiding hundreds of others is a full blown saloon war, and it is not to be attempted until a general order is issued and carried out by the police."

Police reported today that small-pox had broken out in a family named Luker, at 22 East Forty-fifth street.

Warden Robert Thorpe, of the City Hospital, is still on North Brother Island, suffering from small-pox. He has nearly recovered.

John Copeland, forty-five years old, walked into Bellevue Hospital Saturday evening, after having been in the city for some time. He had been in the city for some time, and had been in the city for some time.

A DREARY LIFE.

How to Make It Cheerful and Pleasant.

Bad experiences sometimes have pleasant endings, as in the case of Mr. J. F. Fry, of 532 East 14th street, New York City, who writes as follows:

"I have been a sufferer for eighteen years with actual, such, relaxation of the heart and nervousness. My nervous system was in a terrible condition. I worried over everything and could not sleep. I was very short of breath and suffered greatly from the asthma."

"After trying many doctors and medicines without benefit, I decided to take Dr. Green's Nervine and after using it, I began to improve immediately. After using two bottles my nerves were strong, my asthma was cured, my heart was all right and I could sleep well."

"The result was marvellous, and I cannot sufficiently express my gratitude for this wonderful discovery. It is the best medicine in the world, and I urge every sick and suffering person to use it. I believe it will cure them."

It is purely vegetable and harmless, and was discovered by Dr. Green, of 25 West 14th Street, New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

This is what occurred before Justice Hogan: Policeman Maloney—I arrested the two men for fighting on the street yesterday, and now both decline to press the charge against each other."

Justice Hogan: "Have you men any charge to make against each other?" The defendants both replied that they had no charge to make against each other, and were discharged.
